

Gmail Tip #9: New Mail Notification!

One often asked for feature has been some sort of automatic notification. Some suggestions have been integrating a button in the Google Toolbar. Another was some sort of System Tray icon. Well, Gmail gave us a notification method that actually works very well...

Open your Gmail account and look at both the "Title" of your web browser as well as the "Button" in the Task Bar. It now shows something like "Gmail – Inbox (2)" where the "2" is the number of new emails you have. Because Gmail auto-updates periodically, this will update as well. Very cool! This works in IE, Firefox, Safari, and maybe others.

Category

1. Gmail Tips

Tags

1. browser
2. Firefox
3. Gmail
4. Google

Date

05/02/2024

Date Created

06/04/2004