

Tip #15-Sena Case tip

I know this tip is VERY specific, but it has been VERY useful to me. I own a Sena Case from SenaCases.com for my Clie NX70V, and while I think it is a good quality case, one of its shortcomings is that over time, the leather "pouch" that holds the the Clie into the case has stretched making it a lose fit.

So, to remedy this, I just cut a two inch piece of adhesive-backed Velcro and applied the "hook" side to the case and the "fuzz" side to the Clie. I mounted it right over the Clie logo on the back near the top. Now when I put the Clie into its case, it secures very nicely.

The Velcro doesn't interfere with the cradle nor the operationo of the flip-screen.

It's unobtrusive and makes a decent case into a more secure and reliable case.

As always, all my information is free, but if you like what you see and would like to help support JimsTips.com, please click on the "Donate" button. Your financial support, no matter how large or small, helps keep this site alive and kicking.

Category

1. PalmOS PDA Tips

Tags

1. case
2. tips

Date

12/22/2024

Date Created

04/07/2003